Current in Eastern Europe

Eastern Europe are the regions with the widest tech talent pools globally. There are almost one million software developers in Eastern Europe, while each of the local talent pools is famous for being focused on a particular technology.

Most Eastern European countries create favorable conditions for both domestic and foreign investors by providing subsidies, and tax incentives for research and development (R&D), simplifying the process of establishing a limited liability company (LLC) and hiring local developers both in-house and remotely.
